

After reviewing the mockups made by Cloud, I think we are pretty much on the same page when it comes to the overall “feel” of the site. He did a good job of having the page emit a very dark & broody yet vibrant and action packed feel. There’s a lot of fading into black contrast that I like and I really like the layout of the home page with the quote and summary hooking the watcher in alongside the amazing artwork done, I think it perfectly captures the balance of imagery and content I wanted. My only note was that I wish the navigation bar stood out slightly more, I love that the first thing you notice is the poster and summary, however the nav bar feels a bit lost. I also noted that it’d be cool to see the nav bar options take an ombre fire look when hovered/clicked on. Overall though, I love the direction the site is going in!
